

Ananos Lightpaper

[Abstract]

Ananos paradoxically is both a pristine oasis in the unforgiving desert that is the digital world, and a cheap copy with little substance. It is a fork plagiarising from another fork, after all. This unique environment is bound to spawn a community that stands apart from most in that its core is not driven by thirst for success but rather nurtures a separation of the self from superficial standards. These standards are a product of fear of going against the predetermined image of an entity. Remove the final barrier obstructing original thought, censorship and what's left is a party of equals, people who have weight in determining what ananos is.

[Ananos]

Ananos, at the time of writing exists only as an asset on the stellar blockchain. However we will eventually create a dag blockchain for ananos, and it will employ a dual blockchain system to allow for maximum integration and enable the utilization of more technology. Maximum supply is 56,400,000,000 equally split among both blockchains. As of now only 28,200,000,000 coins are in existence. Simply put Ananos is a pineapple-themed meme-coin.